

TI'JUANA A. GHOLSON

A BUSINESS AND COMMUNITY STRATEGIST

WWW.TIJUANAGHOLSON.COM

Ti'Juana Gholson serves her community as a multitude business owner and community advocate. She and her husband co-founded the nonprofit organization, Inner Peace Coalition, a Community Development Agency. She owns multiple businesses including businesses in the healthcare and real estate arenas. Ti'Juana serves her community and does advocacy work through organizations like the NAACP. She holds a couple of county board appointments and enjoys serving on several nonprofit organization committees. She's active in her local Chamber of Commerce and works collaboratively with them on various projects. Ti'Juana considers herself a community connector, an author, and an educator. She has developed several programs to include an annual business symposium, a business network and an educational series promoting business and financial education to the small business community. She's received several awards, and one notable prestigious award is The Small Business Administration (SBA) 70th Anniversary Legacy Award last July 2023. She and her husband were nominated by the District Director of the SBA for this award. You can see Ti'Juana on her monthly video podcast called "Money Talks with the Gholson's" where she and her husband have discussions with community leaders, business owners and everyday people, encouraging financial literacy. Ti'Juana enjoys traveling with her husband, is a proud mother and LOVES being the 'coolest' NaNa of her four amazing grandsons!
